Everyone Does Better With Their Nerve Channels Open!!

Everyone does better with their nerve channels open. That is some statement when you think about it. How could everyone do better with anything? What are nerve channels anyway? Big deal if they are open. So what?

Whoever, whatever, or however our bodies were put together, it sure was a neat project! We are made up of some pretty incredible "stuff". Our brains sit up on our heads, and our brains along with our spinal cords, run everything that goes on in our bodies. They take probably millions of bits of information coming from all parts of the body each minute and analyze that information and make decisions in fractions of a second about every chemical process that needs to take place. The liver alone has over 300 chemical processes that take place (that we know of) and that is just one organ in a body that has hundreds of glands and organs that make chemicals that all have to be in perfect harmony in order for us to carry on from minute to minute. Overwhelming right? Do we take all this "stuff" for granted? Oh yeah!

Can this incredible process work with perfect harmony if a bone in your spine is "out of place" causing just the tiniest bit of interference from the chemical producing glands and organs back to the brain?

These 24 movable segments of the spinal column called vertebrae, have the ability to move out of position causing nerve pressure which interferes with the signal we just alluded to. But Doc, I don't believe this interference really takes place. I feel fine most of the time and by the way, I am too busy to do anything right now. The kids are in soccer, we have church on Sunday, my Grandma is in the hospital, and I need to get over there to see her.

As we carry on with our busy schedules is our body chemistry slowly deteriorating? Is the insulin made in the pancreas not at the level it possibly should be? Is the cholesterol which is made in the liver, now making too much and building up in areas we don't need it to build up? Is our thyroid gland making too much thyroxin, which is keeping us awake too much and causing us to either gain weight or lose weight?

When your chemistry is out of balance because of closed off nerve channels, you will never again be all that you could be, until you get those channels open again. The deterioration of your body chemistry is cumulative!!

Get a spinal adjustment from a chiropractor to open up your nerve channels. Everyone does better with their nerve channels open. That really is some statement when you think about it!!

Use this newsletter as a coupon and for $40.00 you can get a consultation, examination, x-rays (if needed), and a report of findings, to see if you might benefit from chiropractic care.
